Frank's Georgia Tech basketball moments of glory came crushing in on him by devistating failures. Far worse, fate eventually dealt Frank a suicidal hand that nearly took his life. It took him twenty-five years to uncover its cause. His hope is that this true story will help others find peace and comfort for their own personal failures and bad fate encounters. Life is too hard for anyone to pass up a true story inspired by adversity and written to make winners out of losers and to keep winners humble.
